Abstract

As the species dominance debate heats up in the coming decades, what strategy will the Terran leaders take in their preparation for the Artilect War? I think their main approach will be to “assassinate the techies.” These Terran leaders will argue that most of humanity is incapable of creating artificial intelligence, because they are not smart enough, so their efforts will be directed against the tiny minority of people who are, i.e. those smart enough to invent machines that can invent. The main problem the Terran strategists will have once the Artilect War starts, is how to “kill the techies?”
