

THE COLOR BOMB

The color force between quarks is stronger than the residual color force between nucleons, so potentially (?) there might be a color bomb using the color force?